

I do not want my privacy invaded. I do not want to be bother by telemarketers all day and night. If I give someone my phone number, I invite them to call me, otherwise I consider it a bother. Before the Do Not Call list, it was unbearable. I have to pay for an unlisted number, but that doesn't matter - they still call. I had to buy a Zapper, which cut down on many, but not enough. I want the Do Not Call ruling to stand - it has quieted down, and I want it to stay that way.
